• Tax practitioners have access to our award-winning Tax & Accounting Portfolios written by leading expert practitioners especially for practitioners. They uniquely offer topic-driven, in-depth guidance designed to help tax professionals save research time and resolve complex issues.
• Labor and employment practitioners get the robust set of private labor arbitration decisions collected by Bloomberg BNA.

• Securities practitioners can leverage the SEC No-Action Letter Search to find relevant guidance about the situations they face using fields such as Company/Requestor, Law Firm, Topic, Act Section/Rule, and more.
PROFIT FROM THE FLEXIBILITY TO DO MORE WITH DOCKETS

Our integrated dockets solution gives you the freedom to be proactive with unrestricted, unlimited dockets searching and alerts. Bloomberg Law Dockets℠ makes it cost effective to include dockets in your regular research process, enabling you to monitor new actions, identify business opportunities, conduct due diligence, or just expand your legal research in federal, state, and international courts. Plus, you can view multiple facets of litigation easily as dockets link to recent underlying patents. Bloomberg News stories often link to related dockets, and Company Profiles list the federal litigation involving the company.

You never pay extra to run a search and look at the results, so you can search broadly or narrowly, however and whenever you want. With Bloomberg Law you can even run a keyword search across dockets and underlying documents loaded on the system. Look close to home or abroad, with access to dockets for the U.K., the Cayman Islands, Dubai, the EU, Hong Kong, and more. Plus, you have expedited access to complaints in important new cases in many U.S. jurisdictions with Breaking Complaints.

The Litigation & Dockets menu goes beyond dockets, providing you quick access to a wealth of litigation tools and content. Easily search opinions, dockets, and U.S. judgments and liens; browse statutes; and stay current on litigation news and more.
MODERNIZE YOUR TRANSACTIONAL WORK

Stay current on market practice with Bloomberg Law’s integrated transactional resources. You easily can go beyond the limitations of your form file, internal database, or the SEC website by using our targeted search tools to quickly find what you need for drafting and negotiation.

Find relevant transactional language in more than 300,000 documents from real transactions using the DealMaker Document Search. Use a fielded search to combine keywords with targeted categories — including the ability to search by deal size and target specific law firms and parties by their role in the deal — to quickly zero in on example language from precedent transactions and other corporate agreements of greatest value to your work. Plus, you can compare clauses you find from among millions of example clauses with the DealMaker Clause Search, in the side-by-side and redlined views — and even include your own clause in a comparison.

In addition, a deal profile is available for many M&A transaction documents. The M&A Deal Detail tab, when shown atop a document, summarizes the main deal terms that financial market professionals and their attorneys need to know and quickly gets you up to speed on what happened when and who was involved.

Get more information from SEC filings, easily searchable through our EDGAR Search. Whether you’re performing due diligence, reviewing disclosure language for a risk factor, researching fund ownership, or getting ready for a new business pitch, EDGAR Search enables you to find what you need quickly. Through an extensive database of EDGAR Comment Threads, you also can follow discussions of critical disclosure issues from the initial SEC Staff comment through subsequent filer and staff responses until resolution.

When you open one of your EDGAR Search results, you get a chart of the impact of the filing on the related stock price. In addition, you can search for and perform comparisons of items in 8-Ks, 10-Ks, and risk factors in 10-Ks, and compare your own text to the results.

You also can access vital resources such as drafting guides, forms, model agreements, timelines, checklists, expert commentary, and transaction-related news. The Transactional Law menu gives you everything you need to be efficient and stay at the top of your practice.
