PREFACE	v
SUMMARY TABLE OF CONTENTS	xi
CHAPTER 1. INTRODUCTION	1
I. Objective of This Book	1
II. Analytical Approach of This Book	3
A. Evaluating the Impact of Compensation Changes	3
B. Simplistic Approaches to Analysis	5
1. Failure to Consider Effect of Adaptation	6
2. Failure to Account for Lost Opportunities	7
3. Failure to Consider the Cash Flow and the Time Value of Money	8
III. Progression of Discussion in Other Chapters	10

Part 1. Analysis and Preparation

CHAPTER 2. LAYING THE GROUNDWORK FOR FINANCIAL ANALYSIS	15
I. Introduction	15
II. Costing As an Integrated Effort	16
III. Timing and Nature of Preparations	18
IV. Sequence of Bargaining Decisions	19
V. Data Used to Evaluate the Financial Impact of Proposals	20
VI. Common Methods for Costing	23
A. Annual Cost	23
B. Cost Per Employee Per Year	24
C. Percent of Payroll	24
D. Cents Per Hour	25
E. Additional Method: Discounted Cash Flow	26

CHAPTER 3. PREPARING A COSTING WORKSHEET	27
I. Getting Started	28
Exhibit 3-1. Negotiation Folder Organization	30
II. Data Source Logs	30
III. Baseline Information	32
Exhibit 3-2. Sample Baseline Worksheet, With Explanations	34
A. Hours Worked	36
1. Straight Time (Item 1)	36
2. Overtime (Item 2)	36
B. Number of Employees (Item 3)	37
1. Full-Time Employees	37
2. Part-Time Employees	37
3. Seasonal or Cyclical Employees	38
C. Key Calculations Per Employee	38
1. Number of Regular Hours Worked Per Employee (Item 4)	38
2. Number of Overtime Hours Worked Per Employee (Item 5)	38
3. Number of Average Days Worked Per Employee (Item 6)	38
4. Number of Average Hours Worked Per Day Per Employee (Item 7)	39
D. Preparing the Remainder of the Base Costing Worksheet	39
1. Mandatory Subjects of Bargaining	39
2. Categorizing Costs	40
Exhibit 3-3. Example of Cost Categories	40
3. Roll-Up	42
CHAPTER 4. EVALUATING WAGES AND OTHER PAID TIME	43
I Wages	44
A. Analyzing the Cost of the Increase in Direct Wages	44
Exhibit 4-1. Sample Calculation of Average Cents-Per-Hour Increase Based on Number of Employees or Number of Hours Paid For	45
Exhibit 4-2. Sample Calculation of Average Cents-Per-Hour Increase Based on Productive Hours	46
B. Analyzing the Increase in the Cost of Benefits Linked to Direct Wages	46

C.	Estimating the Total Cost: Using the Roll-Up	47
	Exhibit 4-3. Explanation of Hypothetical Facts and Formulas	49
	Exhibit 4-4. Computation of Roll-Up	50
II.	Cost-of-Living Adjustments	51
III.	Overtime Premium and Shift Differentials	53
IV.	Payment for Time Not Worked	55
	A. Vacations	55
	1. Eligibility	55
	2. Scheduling	56
	3. Payment	56
	B. Holidays	59
	Exhibit 4-5. Explanation of Hypothetical Facts for Estimate of Cost of One Added Holiday in Cents Per Hour	60
	Exhibit 4-6. Explanation of Sample Facts and Formula for Estimate of Cost of One Added Holiday in Total Dollars Rather Than Cents Per Hour	61
	C. Relief Time	62
	Exhibit 4-7. Explanation of Sample Formula and Hypothetical Facts to Determine Number of Relief Employees Required to Cover for Additional Minutes of Breaks	63
	D. Other Paid Time Off	65
	1. Funeral Leave	65
	2. Jury Duty	66
	3. Union Business	66
	4. Medical Injury	66
	E. Required Payments	67
CHAPTER 5.	EVALUATING OTHER CONTRACT PROVISIONS	69
I.	Introduction	70
II.	Pension Benefits	70
	A. Defined Contribution Plans	70
	B. Defined Benefit Plans	72
III.	Other Post-Retirement Benefits	74
IV.	Impact of Contract Changes on Financial Statements .	75
V.	“Noneconomic” Provisions	76
VI.	Economic Variables	77
	A. Production Volume and Prices	77
	1. Volume	78

a. Overall Dollar Costs Are More Significant in Making Contract Decisions Than Are Cents-Per-Hour Costs	78
b. Labor Costs Do Not Always Vary Directly With Production Volume	79
c. Estimates of Future Volume Are Too Important Not to Be Incorporated Into Cost Estimates	79
2. Prices	80
B. Product Mix	80
C. Capital Investments and Technological Improvements	81
VII. Spillover	82
VIII. Post-Contract Audits	83
CHAPTER 6. USING THE DISCOUNTED CASH FUND MODEL	85
I. Advantages of the Model	86
A. The Model Takes Into Account the Time Value of Money	88
B. The Model Provides a Frame of Reference for a Thorough and Systematic Analysis of the Financial Impact of a Proposal and Enables Management to Take Into Account Operational Changes That the Firm Is Likely to Make in Order to Adjust to the New Contract	89
C. The Information Returned by the Model Is Easy to Understand, and Because the Model Summarizes the Present Value of a Proposal in a Single Figure, It Facilitates Comparisons of Alternative Proposals	91
D. The Model Avoids Problems of Allocations Inherent in Evaluation Techniques Based on “Accounting” Income	91
E. Owing to the Availability of Spreadsheet Software Such as Excel [®] , the Model Requires Little Mathematical Knowledge or Computer Programming Expertise	92
II. Limitations of the Model	92
A. The Model Implicitly Assumes That a Firm Has a Single Goal: To Maximize the Net Present Value of a Stream of Future Cash Flows	92
B. The Model Requires That a Firm Explicitly

	Determine a Discount Rate	93
	C. The Model Necessitates Estimates of Future Cash Flows	93
III.	Cents-Per-Hour Computations	93
	Exhibit 6-1. Factors to Consider in Determining Elements of Formula	94
IV.	An Illustration of Cents-Per-Hour Computations	99
	Exhibit 6-2. Key Features of Old Contract	100
	Exhibit 6-3. Pro Forma Labor Costs Under Old Contract Assuming New Size and Composition of Labor Force and New Mix of Straight-Time and Overtime Hours	102
	Exhibit 6-4. Summary of Major Changes in New Contract	104
	A. Direct Wages	105
	B. Overtime	105
	C. Holidays	106
	D. Vacations	106
	E. Cost-of-Living Bonus	107
	F. Supplemental Unemployment Benefits	108
	G. Accident and Sickness Insurance and Pensions	108
	H. Effect of Direct Wage Increases on Wage-Related Benefits	109
	I. “Spillover”	110
	J. Prices	110
	K. Summary of Costs	111
	Exhibit 6-5. Cost of Old Contract and Cost of Revisions; Total Cost and Cents-Per-Productive Hour Cost	112
V.	The Discounted Cash Flow Approach	114
	Exhibit 6-6. Present Value of $1	115

Part 2. Execution

CHAPTER 7.	COSTING PROPOSALS DURING NEGOTIATIONS	125
I.	Anticipation and Research for Collective Bargaining ..	125
	A. Employee Surveys	126
	B. Grievance Histories	126
	C. Review of Previous Negotiations	128
	D. Union Bargaining Team Selection	128
	E. Management Bargaining Team Selection	129

F. Preparation of Proposals	130
G. Obtaining Bargaining Authority	131
II. How Proposals Integrate with Roll-Up	132
Exhibit 7.1 Sample Worksheet With Examples	134
III. Key Strategic Issues During Economic Bargaining	136
A. Timing	136
B. Disclosure of Information	137
C. Selection of Negotiation Format	138
IV. “The Offer Cone”	138
A. Best Alternative to a Negotiated Agreement (BATNA)	138
B. Presentation of Offers (“The Offer Cone”)	139
 CHAPTER 8. USING AN INTEREST-BASED NEGOTIATION STYLE IN ECONOMIC COMPONENTS OF BARGAINING	 141
I. The Differences in Distributive and Integrative (Interest-Based) Bargaining Styles	141
A. Distributive Bargaining Style	142
1. Example Using Distributive Bargaining Style ...	143
B. Interest-Based Bargaining Style	144
1. The Steps of Interest-Based Bargaining	145
2. Example Using Interest-Based Bargaining Steps	146
Exhibit 8-1. Sample Interests	147
Exhibit 8-2. Sample Options Table	148
3. Methodology for Using Interest-Based Bargaining for Economic Issues	150
II. When to Use Each Style	151
 CHAPTER 9. ALTERNATIVE DISPUTE RESOLUTION: NEGOTIATION, MEDIATION, FACT FINDING, AND ARBITRATION	 153
I. Alternative Dispute Resolution Processes	154
A. Introduction	154
1. Generally	154
2. Using Alternative Dispute Resolution	154
3. Avoiding Strikes or Lockouts	155
4. Timing of Bargaining	155
B. Negotiation	155
1. Generally	155
2. The Negotiation Process	156

1. Generally	157
2. Compared With Arbitration	158
3. Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service	158
4. State Mediation Agencies	159
D. Fact Finding	160
1. Generally	160
2. Compared With Arbitration and Mediation	161
E. Interest Arbitration	162
1. Generally	162
a. Defined	162
b. History	163
c. Compulsory Interest Arbitration	164
d. Private Sector	165
2. Pros and Cons of Interest Arbitration	166
3. Compared With Grievance Arbitration	167
4. Constitutionality of Interest Arbitration	168
5. Tripartite Panels	169
6. Forms of Interest Arbitration	170
F. Mediation-Arbitration	171
1. Generally	171
2. Authority to Mediate and Arbitrate	171
II. Standards in Interest Arbitration	172
A. Introduction	172
B. Standards	172
1. Introduction	172
2. Statutory Standards	172
3. Discretion of Arbitrator	174
CHAPTER 10. USING COSTING INFORMATION IN NEGOTIATING, MEDIATING, FACT FINDING, AND ARBITRATING	175
I. Introduction	177
A. Generally	177
B. Preparation	178
1. Generally	178
2. Collecting Information	178
II. Selected Standards	179
A. Comparable Compensation Practices	179
1. Generally	179
2. Bargaining Patterns	181
3. External Comparability	182
a. Generally	182
b. Databases	183

c. Comparable Employers	183
d. Comparable Job Classifications or Occupational Groups	184
4. Internal Comparability	184
a. Generally	184
b. Benefits	185
c. Parity	185
5. Application	186
a. Generally	186
b. Determining Comparable Employers	186
c. Determining Comparable Positions or Classifications	187
d. Comparing Wages and Benefits	187
e. Historical Rankings	188
f. Examples	189
Table 10-1. Truck Driver Annual Wage	189
Table 10-2. 2011–2012 BA Base	190
Table 10-3. 2011–2012 BA Seventh Step	191
Table 10-4. 2011–2012 BA Maximum	192
Table 10-5. 2011–2012 MA Base	193
Table 10-6. 2011–2012 MA Seventh Step	194
Table 10-7. 2011–2012 MA Maximum	195
Table 10-8. 2011–2012 Schedule Maximum	196
B. Economic Conditions	197
1. Generally	197
2. Application	197
a. Trends	197
b. Program and Position Cutbacks	198
C. State Law	198
1. Generally	198
2. Application	198
D. Ability to Pay	198
1. Generally	198
a. Ability to Pay in the Private Sector	200
b. Burden of Persuasion	201
c. Employer's Budget	202
2. Application	202
a. Generally	202
b. Evaluating Employer's Budget and Financial Statements	204

c. Compensation of Other Employees	204
E. Changes in the Cost of Living	204
1. Generally	204
a. Average Consumer Prices for Goods and Services	204
b. Comparison of Settlement Patterns	205
2. The Consumer Price Index	205
a. Generally	205
b. Available Indexes	205
c. Limitations of the CPI	206
3. Application	206
F. Overall Compensation Presently Received by Employees	207
1. Generally	207
2. Application	207
a. Generally	207
b. Benefits	207
c. Paid Leave	208
d. Teacher Annual Salary Calculated As an Hourly Wage	208
e. Public Safety Employees	209
